Syria, Soviet 'negotiating military pact'

Jerusalem Post Arab Affairs Reported Syria and the Soviet Union are holding high-level negotiations on a military treaty, two Beirut news-papers reported yesterday. They said the talks were taking place in Da-mascus with a Soviet military delegation which arrived in Syria secretly last Monday.

The two papers are "An-Nahar" and "L'Orient-Le Jour," both of which were the first to flash the news of last weekend's airlift of Soviet arms to Syria.

The newspapers said that the immediate object of the military treaty would be "to protect Damas-cus against Israeli attacks." The French-language "L'Orient-Le Jour" said that the flow of the Soviet equipment and technicians had already deterred Israel from attacking Syria.

"An-Nahar" said that the negotated treaty was bound to fall short of a full cooperation pact since Syria was still opposed to the type of agreements Moscow concluded with Egypt and Iraq. The newspaper indicated that Syria was interested dicated that Syria was interested only in a treaty to consolidate its msitary potential.

A third Lebanese newspaper, "As-Safa", yesterday reported that the Soviets were supplying Syria with ultra-modern weapons which Moscow had previously refused to give to Egypt. The paper claimed that the recent Soviet supplies to Damascus included Mig 23 jets, and that Syrian pilots were already belishing and nightchub empire, said the results of the Playboy publishing and nightchub empire, said there last night he had cancelled a ing trained to fly them.

Sadat calls for Palestinian gov't in exile

By ANAN SAFADI, Jerusalem Post Arab Affairs Reporter Egypt's President Anwar Sadat yesterday called on Palestinians to form a government in exile to stop them from being "eliminated" at the hands of the U.S. Israel and Jordan.
"It is high time for the Palestinians to form such a government," Sadat said.

His call was bound to stir up a turmoil within Palestinian circles, and between them and their host Arab states, especially in Lebanon and Jordan. It is also expected to complicate Egypt's expected to complicate Egypt's position vis-a-vis any political Middle East settlement, especially U.N. Security Council resolution 242 whose validity would eventually be questioned if Egypt supported a Palestinian government in exile.

Sadat made the statements in a nation-wide speech on the second anniversary of the death of Egypt's leader Gamal Abdul-Nasser. Sadat said that the formation of a Palestinian government in exile would be a reply to Premier Golda Meir's reluctance to accept the Palestinian entity and U.S. plans, supported by King Hussein, to "eliminate" the Palestimans.

Golda 'won't run again'

By DAVID LENNON

LONDON. - Prime Minister Golda Meir will not stand for reelection next year. Mrs. Meir stated this at the end of an interview which was broadcast on B.B.C. television's "Midweek" programme Wednesday night.

When questioned about the possibility that she might run for a further term of office, the Prime Minister answered that there were many younger people in the country who could manage it very well.

Not satisfied with this equi-vocable answer, the interviewer asked Mrs. Meir if she had changed her mind since the time a year ago when she had told him she would retire from politics in 1973. "Well, I will be 75 next year and I think one should step down before one is forced to because one is no longer capable of carrying on, No, I haven't changed my mind, I will not stand for a new term in 1973,"

prices and incomes

LONDON (UPI). - The Government will impose statutory curbs on prices and incomes unless unions accept voluntary restraints, according to political sources. Such measures would, however, be taken only as a "last resort."

Vic Feather, general-secretary of the 10-million member Trades Union Congress, said on Wednesday that the general council of the Congress had rejected the Government's proposed voluntary pay-and-price curbs. But T.U.C. leaders had agreed, however, to continue negotiations with the administration and industry on the issue.

Government plan announced on Tuesday proposes a 5 per cent cell-ing on retail price increases and a £2 weekly limit on all pay rises during the next 12 months.

Premier Edward Heath appealed on Wednesday night directly to the public to support the plan for the good of the nation."

Political sources said Mr. Heath remains politically opposed to legally enforced restraints, but is prepared to impose them if the Government is unable to reach agreement with the union and industry on voluntary Union leaders have expressed strong opposition to a £2 ceiling on wages.

"There would be a bloody riot in the civil service." said a representative of internal revenue employees. After the unions' rejection of the plan share prices on the London Stock Exchange fell by 10.6 on the "Financial Times" index.

Leadership returned to the financial and real estate shares, in price rises as well as in volume. A gain of seven points for Bank Leumi is a rarity, even on a volume of 167,600 shares. IDB Bankholding rose 4.5 points, Poalim three, Israel British four, ILDC shares exrights added six points to 230.5, Africa-Israel rose 4.5 and Wolfson rose 2.5 to 119. In this section, only Clal dropped 3.5 points to 201, Rassco Preferred fell 2.5 while the ordinary shares of this company rose 2.5. These shares are fluctuating as the negotiations regarding the sale of this company are quite secret, and even with knowledge of the company's improved financial position, the price any prospective buyer will be ready to pay is pure Guessing is also the only course with the next quotation of Piryon. The company announced yesterday that it will pay only a dividend of four per cent instead of the seven per cent intended and announced, as it had received an offer to sell its main investment, the Katz bakery. This will change entirely the nature of this company, which, with cash in hand, will have to decide upon its future structure and investments. The share was not traded yesterday.

Industrial shares are slightly lower, with American Paper Mills dropping 21 points to 657, a little closer to the New York quote of

FOOTBALL STILL TROUBLED

TWENTY thousand spectators on Wednesday watched Tel Aviv Hapoel score the only goal of the game that gave them this season's cup. Streets in the towns were half deserted while hundreds of thousands of others watched it on TV. Football has become something that matters to a generation of fans as well as players, and the State owes it to them that the game shall be clean; reasonably clean, at

The findings of bribery and malpractices in Israel football by the 1971 enquiry commission headed by Judge Moshe Etzioni shocked the sports fan as well as the man in the street.

The commission's findings resulted in the Minister of Education, Mr. Yigal Allon, demanding a clean sweep of the Football Association Management. It seemed then that football in Israel had turned over a new leaf, and this season passed fairly smoothly and without serious rowdyism at the grounds. It thus came as an unpleasant surprise this week that the F.A. was again faced with a case of attempted bribery of players, allegedly by functionaries of Marmorek Hapoel, the team that won promotion from League 'A' to the National League. Some players claimed that they were fidence that was being built up has collapsed. Although the case that emerged this week was concerned with promotion, larger gates and thus greater income for a club, most of the earlier bribery offered cash — to lose — so that the new team would stay in the League. The offer was rejected and while it is not clear who was responsible the renewed con-attempts were related to large-scale gambling. The government-controlled "Sportoto" football pool, which pays out hundreds of thousands of pounds each week, has taken steps to counter gambling — steps that can still be easily evaded. It makes more sense to include in the Toto coupons a number of English league matches not open to interference here than to raise the stake to 50 agorot, which will not deter big gamblers but is hard on the small man who likes to have his weekly flutter on the football results.

Another highly disturbing aspect of our football is the total lack of sportsmanship, which has, also, been exported in the past few months. In Burma, several national team players harmed Israel's good name by insulting referees and ugly gesturing at the Rangoon crowds. A few weeks ago, Tel Aviv Maccabi players celebrated their national matter and the statement of the sta tional league championship with similarly objectionable conduct during a disastrous tour of the United States.

It has always been regrettable that the schools do so little for sports. It is too late to learn sportsmanship in the clubs, and there, in any case, the game is already a matter of money. The Ministry of Education, which is the government body responsible for sports, has neg-lected its responsibilities in this respect.

The tragedy at Munich over-shadowed our appreciation of the prowess shown there by our representatives. We owe it to the memory of those who were lost there to pay more attention to the living sportsmen, and to give them a better chance.

'The anthems and the flags must go'

OLYMPIC 'MONSTER'

LONDON (Ofns) .-TWO hours after the Olympic flame had flickered out in Munich this month, Willi Daume, organizer of the Games there, said it was now up to the International Olympic Committee to do what they could to remove pompousness and kitsch from the Games. He knows as well as any man that unless nationalism is debunked. there can be little hope of peace in Montreal, or anywhere else.

It was good to hear Daume's challenge in public, but behind the doors of the next I.O.C. Congress it stands small chance of success. The Olympic Games must somehow return to being a contest between individuals, and the kernel of the operation to deflate the Games has to be the abolition of the flag-raising and national anthems at the medal ceremonies. The odds are, splitting it crudely, that the Western world and the English-speaking nations would be in favour of the move, the East-ern European block and the Af-rican nations against it and as long as that division persists, the necessary two-thirds majority in the LO.C. cannot be obtained.

STATE SUPPORT
To drive out nationalism does not imply the belittling of patriotism. To a sports fan, the sight of an athlete from his own country breaking the electronic beam first will always bring a special thrill, but to underline the national achievement is irrelevant and senseless. It plays hopelessly into the hands of those nations whose athletes are State-supported, State-employed and State-rewarded. As long as the winning of a gold medal puts another point on the national medals table, the Olympic Games will go on being a little more like an international war.

They will go on, too, providing a rostrum on which noses may be thumbed at the Establishment. The behaviour of the two American Negroes who declined to respect the raising of their national flag was boorishly discourteous to their hosts. This was an inevitable adjunct of their protest, not its in-tention. How can we respect a nation, they said, that treats our people as it does?

However one might condemn their bad manners, it is difficult not to sympathize with their prin-

More disturbingly, it laid bare the LO.C.'s appalling decision not to leave the flags at half-mast for more than a few hours after the massacre, to raise them the very next day and thereafter make not even a token of respect to Israel and its dead.

Such personal demonstrations as the Negroes' could hardly get off the ground without that pompous medal-presenting ceremony, in which honouring the athlete has become hardly more important than honouring the men who march out to shake his hand, and considerably less important than-honouring the nation he represents.

That lets us look at the Olympics as contests between the world's greatest athletes, not the world's greatest athletic nations. Unless the Games can be so reduced, they will (If they can go on at all) switch from one great commercial power to one great commercial power to another, swelling in extravagence at each step, monuments of monstrosity.

Will there ever again be Olym pics in Sweden, Beigium, Holland? Can even France or Britain hope to foot that sort of bill? What about little Helsinki, happiest of all Olympic cities; Athens, where it all began; and Africa, where, somewhere, the Games should soon be heading? For them, to hold the Games has become just a dresm. What we have our hands now is a World Fair, not a sports festival.
